Provisional Envelopes
An Overview

This section of the Provisional Manual contains this Overview, Images of Provisional Envelopes in a pdf format, and a spreadsheet summarizing size and attributes of the envelopes by county.

A review of provisional envelopes from around the state shows a wide variety of styles, proving once again there are many ways to accomplish the same task. Most are pink (others are tan, blue, white with colored borders, white with blue and red ink), they range in size from 5"x10.5" to 9"x12," some have a pocket for a voter registration affidavit, some are used as registration affidavits, some are in multiple languages, some have tear-off handouts explaining the process to the provisional voter, and some have preprinted reference numbers. No one size or shape fits all counties.

Elections Code § 14310(b) says, in part, "The provisional ballot envelopes specified in this subdivision shall be a color different than the color of, but printed substantially similar to, the envelopes used for vote by mail ballots, and shall be completed in the same manner as vote by mail envelopes." In fact, few, if any, provisional envelopes could be mistaken for a vote by mail envelope even if the colors were the same. Where elections officials address virtually all returning vote by mail envelopes and the voter needs only to sign the envelope, the provisional envelope must contain the voter's signature and sufficient information from the voter to confirm her or his registration.

To some degree, the wording and information requested on a provisional envelope depends on the envelope's size. Almost all provisional envelopes reviewed have three elements in common: Voter information, poll worker information, and For Office Use Only.

Voter information: All envelopes have common fields for the voter to complete.

- Print name
- Signature line for affirmation of registration and eligibility to vote
- Residence address including city and ZIP code
- Birth date
- California driver's license number and SSN4

Other frequently requested information includes:

- Phone number
- Mailing address
- Past residence address
- Party

Envelopes used as registration affidavits also have declarations that the voter is at least 18 years old, is a US citizen, and is not a felon or on felony parole.

Poll worker information: To varying degrees, elections officials use the provisional envelope to instruct poll workers on the provisional process at the polling place. Almost all envelopes have spaces for the Precinct Number or Identifier where the provisional ballot was issued and the Party of the ballot in the envelope. Some ask for the poll worker's name and some have a blank line for poll worker to explain why the provisional ballot was issued. Most envelopes have check boxes (☐) prompting the poll worker to indicate why the voter is receiving the provisional ballot; for example:

- ☐ Vote by mail voter with no ballot to surrender
- ☐ Voter's name not on roster (some have multiple questions on this topic)
- ☐ New voter with no ID
- ☐ Voter claims to be registered in a different political party (primary only)

This area on the envelope should be clearly marked to get the poll worker's attention.

For Office Use Only: Once the provisional envelope is in your hands and part of the official canvass, you need to be able to record on the envelope what you did with it and why. If there is a recommendation here, it is to use "For ROV Use Only" or "For Office Use Only" to try to keep poll workers from being helpful and filling it out for you. Some counties add a 10 percent gray over this area to make it more distinct and different.

All envelopes have three basic fields: Count, No Count, and Reason. Count/No Count are most often check boxes (☐), sometimes multiple check boxes for anticipated reasons for counting (VBM not returned; On Roster, Board Error; Inactive; Moved in-county) or not counting the ballot (Not registered; Signature does not match; No signature; VBM returned; Other: [Explain]).

Other common data fields include Party, Ballot Type, Duplicate/Change, Old Precinct/New Precinct, Voter ID, and a space for the elections official(s) reviewing the provisional envelope.

Things to think about

There is no one perfectly correct provisional envelope. If you have thought about changing your envelope, here are some questions and thoughts to consider:

- How does your envelope design fit into your overall provisional process?
- Do you want to make provisional voting simple, fast, and as decision-free as possible for poll workers and voters?
- Do you want to channel poll workers, voters, and staff to provide certain structured information?
- Are you going to use the envelope as a registration affidavit?
- Do you want a voter registration affidavit to accompany the envelope (i.e., use a pocket envelope)?
- Are you going to use information on the envelope to change the voters' records?

- What information does your election management system (DIMS, DFM) need to process provisional voters? Do you want the fields on the envelope to mimic the fields in DIMS/DFM?
- How big is the ballot going into the provisional envelope?
- Do you need to print multiple languages on the envelope or do you have enough non-English language provisional voters to warrant envelopes entirely in different languages?
- How readable are the instructions on your envelope?
- Will you provide your provisional voter with a tear off receipt from the envelope or give them something else?

VoteCal considerations: HAVA required each state to establish a free means for provisional voters to determine whether their ballots were counted and, if not, why. Since California is somewhat late getting to a statewide voter registration database, counties were individually responsible for providing this information. By almost three to one, counties use a toll-free telephone number (800) or allow collect calls compared to counties posting provisional information on their websites. VoteCal will provide a single point of lookup for provisional ballot status if your EMS provisional module collects the following information: A unique provisional ID (usually a preprinted number on the provisional envelope); or, voter's first name, residence street numbers, voter's date of birth, and residence ZIP code. For either, you must also have a Reason Code that indicates the resolution of the ballot.

Envelope and Ink Color: While pink is the traditional color for provisional envelopes and is helpful in training poll workers ("If it's pink, it's provisional"), solid pink often limits your options on envelope size and often costs more than white envelopes. If you scan and attach images of envelopes to voter records, pink will often turn gray or muddy, making a clean signature capture difficult. Counties will use larger type, bold type, and other type colors (usually red) to try to emphasize important information or hoped for actions.

Time to complete envelope data: The more information you want from voters and poll workers, the longer it will take to fill out the envelope. Then there is the consideration of whether the provisional voter needs to fill out a registration affidavit, which adds more time to the process. At some point, voters and poll workers check out of the process which results in incomplete information and the eternal question: What were they thinking? Try to balance essential data necessary to validate a provisional voter's right to vote with optimum data which you would capture in a perfect election world.

Envelope Size, Layout, and Readability: The smaller the envelope and the more you put on it, the smaller the type size you have to use. This leads to bigger envelopes or taking words off the envelope. One way to gain space for voter information is to use a tear-off receipt or flap or use a separate receipt entirely. Some counties use both sides of the envelope to maximize printing space while either keeping type size large or accommodating multiple languages. There is a general trend toward using simpler words, fewer of them, and larger type to get your point across. (See http://www.aiga.org/content.cfm/design-for-democracy and www.transcend.net – look at the Library tab – for examples.) Try to keep the three areas (voter, poll worker, office) as distinct and separate as possible.

Voter Data: At the most basic level, you need a legible voter's name and signature to confirm her/his registration and to compare to the voter's signature on file. The voter's signature must be on the envelope for the ballot to count. A driver's license is always good but a birth date generally works to differentiate voters with the same name. Any requested or demanded information beyond the above depends on your county's processes and goals. San Bernardino County asks for the least information: signature, date, printed name residence address, birth date, and driver's license number or SSN4. Counties using the envelope as a registration affidavit ask for the most information. As a design concern, consider using a large boxed area for the voter's signature, particularly if you update voter information from the envelope.

Poll Worker Data: It's useful to know what precinct issued the ballot to help reconcile. And to help understand why you have the provisional ballot, having the poll worker indicate the reason it was issued is often useful. As noted above, check boxes provide such information and limit poll worker creativity in providing responses.

For Office Use Only Data: Either you will count the ballot in the envelope or you will not count it and the envelope should have some means to indicate what you did with it and why. Some counties include extensive fields or boxes to include voter ID, voted precinct, assigned precinct (where the voter should have voted), whether to accept the ballot as is or duplicate it, party (presumably the part in which the voter was last registered), and instructions for data entry and subsequent actions to take. One design consideration is to make these fields mimic the data fields from your EMS (DFM, DIMS) if that suits your county's procedures.

Elections Code 14310 allows a voter to cast a ballot "provisionally" for any of the following reasons: (1) eligibility of the voter cannot be determined at the polls, (2) the voter is unable to surrender his/her Vote by Mail Ballot, (3) or the first-time voter is unable to produce an acceptable form of identification. Your ballot will be counted if the Elections Division of the County Clerk's office establishes eligibility and verifies that the signature on the provisional envelope compares to the signature of record. If you vote in a precinct other than your assigned, only those candidates and measures which you were entitled to vote at your assigned precinct shall be counted.

The federal Help America Vote Act (HAVA) mandates:

1. The Right to Cast a Provisional Ballot.
2. "Free access" to the status of the provisional ballot, including if the provisional ballot was counted and if not, the reason why.

To find out whether your provisional ballot was counted or to determine the status of your provisional ballot, please call 30 days after the election:

You will be asked to provide your name and birth date, and an election official will be able to answer your questions regarding the status of your provisional ballot.

If a ballot is not counted because the individual casting the ballot is not registered in Madera County, he/she will receive a registration card in the mail. In order to be eligible for future elections, the card must be completed and returned to the elections office.

NOTICE TO VOTER: Elections Code Section 14310(c) says provisional ballots are counted during the official canvass only if (1) the elections official established the voter's right to vote the ballot, or (2) the Superior Court orders the ballot be counted. A voter must seek a court order to require his or her ballot to be counted but must do so before the official canvass period ends. Any individual who cast a provisional ballot will be able to ascertain whether the vote was counted and, if the vote was not counted, the reason that the vote was not counted. (P.L. 107.252, Help America Vote Act of 2002, Sec. 302(a)(5)(A).

SAVE THIS STUB TO OBTAIN INFORMATION ON YOUR PROVISIONAL BALLOT.

To determine if your provisional ballot was counted, please call the Larimer County Election Department at (970) 498-7820 OR visit our website at: www.votelarimer.org. To protect your privacy, you will need to provide the unique number printed on this stub.

SEAL YOUR VOTED BALLOT IN THIS ENVELOPE and return it to an Election Judge

This sealed envelope will be forwarded to the Designated or Coordinated Election Official's Office. If your eligibility to vote can be verified, your provisional ballot will be counted. Keep the receipt provided by the election judge. It provides information on how you may determine the status of your provisional ballot. If, for any reason, your provisional ballot cannot be counted it will remain sealed in this envelope pursuant to Colorado law.

YOU HAVE BEEN ASKED TO VOTE A PROVISIONAL BALLOT FOR ONE OF THE FOLLOWING REASONS:

- YOU WERE UNABLE TO PROVIDE ACCEPTABLE, VALID IDENTIFICATION AS REQUIRED BY LAW.
- YOUR VOTING ELIGIBILITY CANNOT BE VERIFIED BY THE POLLING PLACE ELECTION JUDGE TODAY.
  The Designated or Coordinated Election Official's Office will check the registration records. If further research determines you are eligible to vote in this precinct or polling place, your provisional ballot will be counted.

  If you are otherwise eligible to vote, but chose not to vote in your assigned precinct or authorized polling location, only your votes for Federal and Statewide races, questions and issues will be counted, pursuant to law.
- YOU WERE PREVIOUSLY REGISTERED IN THE STATE OF COLORADO AND YOU HAVE MOVED WITHIN THE STATE BUT DID NOT RE-REGISTER.
  Your prior registration will be verified by the Designated or Coordinated Election Official's Office. Your voter registration will then be updated with your current address.
- THE RECORDS INDICATE YOU REQUESTED A MAIL-IN BALLOT OR EARLY VOTING BALLOT FOR THIS ELECTION.
  If the Designated or Coordinated Election Official's Office can verify that you have not cast a mail-in ballot or early voting ballot for this election, then your provisional ballot will be counted.

IMPORTANT!

This may be used as a voter registration for future elections and any previous voter registration may be cancelled.

YOUR PROVISIONAL BALLOT WILL NOT BE COUNTED IF:

- You DO NOT SIGN THE AFFIDAVIT on the other side of this envelope;
- You moved to Colorado within 30 days before the election OR moved to Colorado and did not register before the registration deadline.
